

Rowan Dally Bio

Rowan Dally is 28 year old session drummer from Darwin, NT, Australia. Rowan first began playing drums at the age of 7- joining his first band Rambutan Jam Band at 14, going on to receive commercial success with 5+ million plays on Spotify by the time he turned 18. Rowan finished high school and moved to Melbourne to study Sound Engineering at RMIT, completing the course and moving back to Darwin in 2019 in order to found his own commercial studio space, Sands Studio.

Since his return, Rowan has been a sort after session drummer in the local community, playing in 20+ local and touring acts and recording over 60 songs in his first years back in his hometown.

Rowan is experienced in many genres, with versatility being his main selling point as a session player in the local and interstate scene. As a studio engineer, Rowan specializes in drum sounds, constantly seeking new and interesting sounds to support songs as best as possible.

Currently performing with Australian indigenous Artist Emily Wurramarra, recording every track on her full-length studio album 'NARA' released in October 2024. 'NARA' went on to be nominated for 2 ARIA's, winning the prize for Best Adult Contemporary Album. Rowan is currently on and off tour throughout 2024 playing major and regional Australian festivals such as Island Vibes, Bass in the Grass, WOMAD and Bluesfest. Since performing with Emily, Rowan has shared the stage with support slots for acts including ICEHOUSE, Pete Murray, Missy Higgins, Eskimo Joe, Alex the Astronaut, Tasman Keith, Xavier Rudd, Dan Sultan, Matt Corby, Coterie and many more.
